Bad HABit: Harmful Algal Blooms in Western Lake Erie

A documentary and outreach video project which aims to draw national, regional and local attention to the issue of Harmful Algal Blooms in Lake Erie. Our focus will be the intersection of HAB science, agriculture, policy, and public health. The film will showcase how scientists are working collaboratively and bi-nationally to understand the scope of the HABs problem, while examining productive ways agriculture can mitigate their contributions to phosphorous loading. What can we do in the short term? What must happen in the long term? Is science influencing policy? What is science telling us about the threat? In what innovative ways are conservation districts and farmers implementing to be better care takers? What tools or mechanisms are we implementing now to keep the public safe and to protect a way of life? These and other questions we will explore in detail as we weave together a dynamic story.

This is new documentary project which will leverage existing relationships within the scientific, policy and agricultural communities. The work of these organizations would continue regardless, however we feel that having a tool which is designed to communicate these important issues will benefit all of the organizations involved.

Trustee, presented the grant to

YOUTH SERVICES PROJECT

STOCK THE SCHOOL SUPPLY PANTRY AT GLENDALE FEILBACH

In a recent study conducted by the National Center of Education Statistics, it was determined that about 94% of public school teachers spend money from their own pockets on school supplies without being reimbursed. On average, the amount spent ranges from $250-500 annually. Let's support the teachers of Glendale Feilbach by easing the burden this year and donate school supplies for them to develop a pantry. This will allow teachers to replenish supplies that students need in the beginning and throughout the school year.

Welcome New Member

Ally Effler, Metroparks Toledo

Ally moved to Toledo 12 years ago from Chicago. She has spent most of her time here in development at the University of Michigan College of Engineering. With two young boys (aged 2 and 5), she was eager to be more a part of the Toledo Community and had the chance to join the Metroparks as their first Director of Philanthropy to help relaunch the Metroparks Foundation and support special initiatives for our incredible park system. It's an exciting time for our community and Ally is thrilled to be a part of moving our region forward. When she is not working or spending time with her kids and husband, she enjoys doing anything active from running to spinning, squash and pilates and exploring new restaurants, events and places in the Toledo area.

Carrie began her career with Findley (formerly Findley Davies), spending 16 years in management consulting. During that time, she supported clients with HR/benefits and led the firm's Strategic Employer Well-being consulting.

Carrie recently joined Metroparks Toledo in a new leadership role, with the purpose of optimizing agency performance, achieving our strategy, and recognizing and creating new experiences that provide value to its constituents.

Alexander also has completed 12+ full marathons in eight different states, including Alaska, and over 100 races of all distances since 2012. She organized a "Get your Rear in Gear" 5K to raise funds to support colon cancer treatments, which had over 500 participants.
